Construction Managers, Owners Representatives & Consultants

Construction Managers, Owners Representatives and Consultants can work for the owner of a particular project and/or design professionals from the initial project design phase until project completion.

There are many services that the professional provides and they can be held to a standard of care for each. Some of those services include:

- Acting as the owner's representative or agent
- Constructability reviews / Value Engineering
- Developing Schedules / Establishing Preliminary and Working Budgets
- Consulting on Design, Utility and Building costs
- Reviewing Contractor Qualifications
- Monitoring Contractor and Design Team Performance
- Construction Claims Management / Litigation Support

Eligible: Agency and At-Risk CM

What is "Agency" CM?

"Agency" CM (also called Pure CM or CM - advisor) is when the owner selects a construction manager to assist in all phases of project delivery from pre-design to final construction. As the owner's eyes and ears on the project, the construction manager oversees and advises on such areas as constructability, control of the scope of work, cost control, scheduling, project management, and optimum use of design and construction firms' skills and talents, and avoidance of delays, changes and disputes. In the above case, the CM is effectively functioning as an independent professional consultant and is not performing construction work with their own staff nor subcontracting to trade contractors.

What is "At-risk" CM?

"At-risk" CM is a delivery method where the construction manager assists with all the pre-construction services, represents the owner's interest in managing the project, but also takes responsibility for the performance of the work, including contracting with all the trade contractors that will perform the construction on the project.

In the above case the CM at risk is effectively functioning as a General Contractor during the construction process. Their role prior to construction commencing may more closely mirror traditional CM duties such as value engineering, constructability reviews, cost estimation, design consultation and a wide variety of activities in their scope of services.
